Is rental assistance an allowable cost?

Yes, rental assistance is an allowable cost under CHG. Eligible expenses may include monthly rent, rental arrears, security deposits, utility assistance, and other housing-related costs when they support a household in obtaining or maintaining permanent housing. However, because this RFP is intended for one-time enhancements rather than ongoing costs, ongoing rental assistance may not be an eligible use in this context.

What does travel entail for an allowable cost?

Travel costs must be directly related to enhancements that increase the quality of services and improve client experience. All travel must be reasonable, necessary, and properly documented. Travel that is not directly tied to CHG-funded activities, such as general agency travel or commuting, is not allowable.
